JAILED FOR MURDER

of Dr. Edward Hall and his love, Mrs. Eleanor Mills, Mrs. Frances Hall, wife of the slain pastor, today swore to avenge herself on those who caused her arrest.

WIDOW OF RECTOR DEFIES ENEMIES

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 29.—The arrest of at least two persons as accessories to the double murder for which matronly Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall is held is expected momentarily.

Following a low-voiced conference this morning in the jail building where the widow who is accused of killing her husband, Rev. Edward W. Hall, and his pretty choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills, is confined, state troopers filed out silently on a mysterious mission.

Those whose arrest is expected are prominent—so prominent that the news that they have been taken into custody will furnish a sensation hardly second to the arrest of Mrs. Hall herself, an arrest which revived a case which was dropped four years ago as completely baffling after it had engaged the attention of crime experts the world over.

Startling Developments

Despite the refusal of Prosecutor Francis Bergen of Somerset county to discuss the case or to state what new evidence caused it to be reopened it is evident that developments of a startling nature may be looked for.

So great is Mrs. Hall's prominence in this community—a prominence which may or may not have won her the extra comforts at the jail which she enjoys—that official action would hardly have been taken without evidence of a definite nature—evidence which could not be overlooked.

All of the old figures in the investigation of the "crime of a century" four years ago stood out today through the mists of years.

Other Arrests Near

Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman," in particular, announced her readiness to go before the grand jury again and tell her story of the woman in gray who wept over the body of the slain rector that horror-ridden night in the Phillips Farm orchard.
